Course Overview

Federal, state, local, and tribal law enforcement officers are responsible to interdict illicit activities in their area of responsibility. It may take officers days, months, or even years, to comprehend the illicit driving behavior of criminals. Detecting unusual driving behavior within seconds as a vehicle passes by can be a hard concept to recognize. Understanding of behavioral analysis is essential for all officers both in the field and during a criminal investigation. Officers will only get one opportunity to assess the suspect before deciding to conduct a vehicle stop; therefore, it is imperative to educate oneself further on human behavior.

The Mexican drug trafficking organizations are constantly changing their smuggling techniques in an effort to stay one step ahead of law enforcement. As these organizations become more sophisticated, it is imperative that officers receive the most up-to-date training available regarding their illegal smuggling tactics.

This one day training course will help officers with understanding local smuggling trends, modification of vehicles, knowledge of their area of operation, and types of hidden compartments utilized by Mexican Drug Cartels and other criminal organizations to transport their illegal narcotics and currency across the United States. In-depth interviewing techniques will be presented to teach officers how to properly conduct roadside interviews and interrogations. Classroom-based practical exercises will be used during the interviewing block of instruction. Officers will learn how to focus on human behavior and distinctive traits displayed by criminals who are being deceptive.

This course will also assist officers in identifying common characteristics presented by criminals who are operating a motor vehicle while in-transit from a crime. The common characteristics are displayed either before, after, or during the commission of the criminal activity. This course is presented by an instructor who has used these techniques to seize hundreds of kilograms of narcotics, large sums of U.S. currency, and dozens of firearms during vehicle interdictions.
